THE HUNTERS UNLEASHED

Bleeding Gums

Leeds, Monday, 9.00 am. New year, fresh meat, fresh blood. The want-to-be killers have been unleashed on campus and beyond, to the far corners of the city.

Forty of the finest will be tracking down, slaughtering and moving on to the next target for the next six weeks, until only one will remain standing.

Will we see innovations in terms of weapons? Will the classic 'KNIFE' still be the favourite? Speculations are welcome.

One thing is certain: imagination still remains the most powerful tool they all have at hand.

Our first findings report dangerous exotic animals being used and new destructive biochemical weapons being prepared, as the Assassins get more subtle than they ever have. But will this be enough?

New Virus?

One of the Corporation's facilities has broadcast an alarming piece of news: research for a new pharmacological cure has gone terribly wrong. The area has been quarantined, but no definite information has been released about the effects of this new virus.
