

The Confidential Times

no.203.078

...for your eyes only...

- Since 2009

THE KILLING IS OVER. FOR NOW.

The Baron Victorious

It was a grey day. Perfect settings for the battle that was to unfold.

43, Peach and Baron Von Marlon were the warriors of the day. Peach must have foreseen her untimely death and opted out of the sudden death match.

So 43 and BVM were lead to the battlefield, more commonly known as the physics underpass. When the fair maiden dropped her handkerchief the battle commenced. with one swift Nerf dart to the leg, 43 was at an instant disadvantage. but he thought gallantly till the end, almost landing many shots upon BVM. but with BVM's superior mobility over his combatant, the end was already nigh. With his last dart he made a lunge for 43, shooting him in the neck.

With naught but the sound of warm blood dripping down the grate, BVM stood over 43 as his victor.

"A good assassin can kill lots, but only a great assassin can avoid getting killed".